

New Scotland Yard probe finally unmask evil serial killer

Picture: GETTY IMAGES

SUSPECTS: Prince Albert Victor, Aaron Kosminski and Lewis Carroll

Hell of sporty teens

PUSHY parents are driving sporty youngsters so hard, many end up with eating disorders, a top doctor claimed yesterday. Growing numbers of teens are going down with anorexia and bulimia.

And Dr Sheelagh Rodgers, a psychological consultant to the English Institute of Sport, blames the pressure on them to become superstars.

She said: "Pushy parents are driving children into eating disorders. The overpowering urge to win at all costs comes out, rather than the child's health. It is life-threatening."

FACE OF JACK THE RIPPER

HERE'S the face of evil killer Jack the Ripper - finally revealed more than 100 years after his reign of terror.

A team of Scotland Yard experts unmasked the serial killer after using 21st Century techniques to solve the 19th Century mystery. And the result is this mugshot of the monster who murdered a string of prostitutes in Victorian London.

Evidence

A TV documentary follows the probe into his crimes, led by Laura Richards, a Scotland Yard Homicide Prevention expert. It's the first time modern police have gone back to the evidence to try to solve it.

Among those claimed to have been the Ripper were Alice in Wonderland author Lewis Carroll and Edward VII's son Prince Albert Victor. But in July the Ripper was named as Aaron Kosminski -

by NADINE LINGE

an insane Polish barber, sent to Colney Hatch asylum by the man leading the hunt, Chief Insp Donald Swanson.

He could not prosecute as the one witness was a Jew who refused to testify against a fellow Jew. But Kosminski, who died in the asylum in 1919, was the prime suspect as revealed in a book of Swanson's notes.

Laura said the Ripper was not a toff and would have lived in the area of the killings in London's Whitechapel in 1888. Her team also discovered that the Ripper strangled his victims and cut them up after they had died.

Ex-Met commander John Grive, who helped the new probe, said: "This would have been enough for coppers to start knocking on doors. They'd have got him."

● Jack the Ripper: The First Serial Killer is on Five tomorrow at 8pm.

I'VE GIVEN UP CIGS FOR SEX

BIG BROTHER babe Aisleyne Horgan-Wallace has quit the ciggies for some red-hot sex. The reality TV star, who is fronting the NHS Smokefree campaign, reckons it's a great way to beat the demon weed.

Aisleyne said: "Don't smoke, have sex instead. It's much better for you. The best way to give up is to replace cigs with something you really enjoy, like sex. Even if you just have a snog instead of a fag."

The self-styled Ghetto Girl, 27, who was "chuffed to bits" with her sensational topless debut in the Daily Star earlier this month, has since kicked her 20-a-day habit.

Aisleyne is one of the first people in the country to be sponsored to give up as part of the launch of the Justgiving website, which goes live today. All the cash she raises will go to charity.

MUSLIM KIDS GET HALIBO SWEETS

SWEETS giant Haribo have launched a range of Halal Gummi Bears for Muslim children.

They went on sale at ASDA this month after being approved by senior clerics.

Gelatin and alcohol-based colourings and flavourings

by EMMA WALL

have been replaced to make them acceptable under Muslim law.

Eight varieties, including the bestseller Gummi Bears, are flying off the shelves as children rush to buy the first major Islam-friendly range. Businessman Neville Finlay, 54, is distributing the sweets in the UK. He claims they taste just like the real thing but are softer and less rubbery.

Market

He added: "There is a huge market out there for Halal sweets if you can get rid of the gelatin. Sales have been phenomenal. More than 10,000 products are being sold each week."

The 79p fruit-flavoured sweets look identical to the regular Haribo range apart from a small green sticker saying Halal in English and Arabic. They are currently on sale in the North West with plans to expand across the country.

Neville now hopes to sign contracts with Morrisons and Woolworths.

The hi-tech sweets are made in Austria and use naturally-grown cells called hydrocolloids in place of gelatin.

CHARLOTTE IN EX PEST NIGHTMARE

Picture: GOTCHA IMAGES

Fury at Kyle's prison letters

EXCLUSIVE

CHARLOTTE Church may have the Voice of an Angel - but she has the language of a drunken sailor when she is hassled by besotted jailbirds.

Her lowlife ex Kyle Johnson, 21, has been penning her letters from prison, where he is serving 12 months for a brutal attack on two clubbers.

But our man with the bread and water said: "He was looking to the wrong person for sympathy. She ignored his letters to begin with. But he used one of his phone calls from prison to get back in touch."

"She was furious. And she used some alarmingly strong language to explain why she doesn't want anything else to do with him."

Charlotte, 20, ended her 18-month relationship with the boozy brawler on Valentine's Day last year. And she hasn't had any contact with him since she embarked on her sickeningly sweet romance with rugged ace Gavin Henson, 24. Kyle is eating humble pie with his porridge and has begged Charlotte to get back in touch with him.

Disgusted

But she is disgusted with Kyle for the attack outside Club Tantra in Cardiff.

And he's lucky Charlotte wasn't judging the case because she would have happily swallowed the key to his cell, washed down with a nice Chianti.

The source said: "He sent a final letter back to apologise for bothering her and put some chocs and soap in with it."

Perhaps Char should attach a rope to one of the soaps and send it back...

HOLD the front page: Tinseltown twiglet Lindsay Lohan has sparked vicious rumours that she actually eats.

Here is the photographic evidence of the 20-year-old sheepishly leaving London's San Lorenzo restaurant.

Our insider said: "The much-hyped meal was shrouded in secrecy." And we thought she survived on the oxygen of publicity.

SPOTTED

IN London: A very braless Gwyneth Paltrow jogging in Regent's Park; Natalie Portman drinking her weight in cocktails at The Groucho Club; Joss Stone ditching her hippy roots by buying shoes at Topshop, Oxford Street; Jodie Kidd splashing out on posh cheeses at Harrods; Nikki Graham throwing a king-size tantrum outside the Soho Revue Bar.

HAVE YOU GOT SOME JUICY GOSSIP

HUSH HUSH

WHICH unsavoury rocker's pooch is a lot more to him than a man's best friend? The animal lover's girlfriend was so repulsed by his unsavoury relationship with the dog, she has given it to a slightly less affectionate owner. But he is pining for the harassed mutt so much, he has taken to sleeping in its old bed. So he really is in the dog-house in more ways than one.

BEY TOLD TO ZIP IT

WANNABE style-queen Beyoncé Knowles left the launch of her Chicago boutique in tears and a deep shade of red after critics ripped into the faulty clothes.

The bootilicious Beyoncé, 25, and her mum Tina were horrified at Macy's House of Dereon opening night when the press pointed out that most of their designs had been sent back by shops as they were sized incorrectly and poorly made. Tina fumed: "Can we move on from these questions of quality control and focus on the positive aspects?" Unless dodgy zips and loose threads count as positive aspects, the only one we can think of is that 10% of the label's profits are to be given to children's charities.

A Federlike guy for Brit

OOPS! Britney's done it again and found another bearded chav. After giving wastrel husband Kevin Federline, 28, the heave-ho, Miss Spears, 24, is off cavorting with her Federlike former manager Larry Rudolph, 37. She flashed her pearly whites at Larry so much, our snapper didn't need to use a flash. Britney fired Larry, who built her career, the day she married Kevin but now she's making sweet music with him again. Our Stateside spy said: "He absolutely adores her. And she seems happy as Larry."

Picture: X17AGENCY

NADDY FINDS A NEW LADDIE

WE knew super-sexy Nadine Coyle wouldn't be a Girl Alone for long.

The vixen of sauce, 21, recently waved goodbye to her chances of becoming a Desperate Housewife when she ended her eight-month romance with green-fingered hunk Jesse Metcalfe, 28.

But this pretty bit of fluff, right, put the smile back on her mush. Naughty Nadine took the mystery hunk to her pal Sarah Harding's 25th birthday nosh-up at London's Nobu.

Sarah, left, also looked like a proud hen who had just laid a particularly fine egg, after her celebratory meal.

Perhaps the new face of Ultimo was particularly proud of the bra she flashed through her outfit.

The birthday girl must have been pleased to show this much chesticle, in what was practically her birthday suit.

Picture: SHOWBIZLONDON

QUICKIES...QUICKIES...

IT DOESN'T take much to confuse Sylvester Stallone, but even we're stumped by his mum. Deluded Jackie has announced that she is 61, one year older than her tough guy son. Ageing Sly said: "According to her, she's 61. All I can say is, it must have been a difficult birth." The mind really does boggle...

IF Bond bosses are after a slightly knackered 007 who can do the salsa, Patrick Swayze is available.

The desperate Dirty Dancing star wants to replace Daniel Craig, and explains: "I do a terribly good English accent. Or at the very least I could be a villain or a co-spy. I'd kick Bond's ass."

Nobody puts Bondie in the corner.

GEORGE W Bush had better watch out - another famous George has his eye on the job.

Sexy George Clooney, left, is rumoured to be taking an interest in politics and his friend, director Stephen Frears, said: "He'd make a great president. He is straightforward and in touch with the people."

But the actor's not sure. He said: "I'd be a terrible candidate. I have no patience for compromise."

George's hit-list

ORGANISERS of George Michael's first British shows for 15 years will definitely need Patience.

George, 43, has hit them with a list of dotty demands, including being provided with 140 freshly-pressed towels and an exercise ball.

But he's banned booze and the only weed is tobacco. He said: "I know I can be a good boy." You've just Gotta Have Faith.

Wendy's gong-ho at showbiz award

EASTENDERS legend Wendy Richard was given a fantastic send-off from fans last night when she was named Britain's most popular TV personality. Wendy, about to leave the BBC1 soap, picked up the gong at the Variety Club's 54th Annual Showbusiness Awards.

Hosted by former GMTV host Eamonn Holmes, 46, the bash was held in association with Daily Star publisher Express Newspapers and Sky.

Daily Express readers voted in their thousands for Wendy, 63, who plays frumpy Pauline Fowler. Two of telly's two funniest men were also laughing last night after David Walliams and Ricky Gervais picked up top showbiz awards. Little Britain star Walliams, 35, won Personality of the Year for his charity swim across the Channel.

And Extras creator Gervais, 45, picked up the Comedy gong at the event at London's trendy Old Billingsgate.

He joked: "It's humbling to win an award for something you get paid for ... writing brilliantly, globally accepted, comedy programmes."

Sharon Osbourne, 54, who is battling it out on ITV1's X Factor, was named terrestrial TV Personality of the Year.

■ PETER Schmeichel has hung up his dancing shoes after being booted off Strictly Come Dancing.

The ex-Manchester United goalie lost out with partner Erin Boag.

■ Schmeichel, 43 on the day, said bad things often happen on his birthday.

"I once missed World Cup qualification on my birthday," he said.

■ Meanwhile Scots golden girl Carol Smillie, 44, is heading for the finals. A BBC insider said mum of three Carol was picking up the biggest proportion of viewers' vote - nearly all of them from Scotland!

Circus Sophie legs it

STROPPIY Sophie Anderton last night quit telly's Cirque de Celebrite after being snubbed by the other stars.

Viewers were told the model, 29, was leaving "on doctor's advice" after she was pictured with a bandaged leg. But an insider said: "She's been very unpopular with the rest of the celebrities. 'No-one's been talking to her so she decided to call it a day.'"

HAS NO FACTOR

CREW: Extras' Ashley Jensen, Ricky Gervais and Stephen Merchant

Cowell won't sing for Ricky

X FACTOR judge Simon Cowell chickened out of appearing on the hit telly comedy Extras – because he was terrified of singing.

"Mr Nasty" Cowell, 47, told funnyman Ricky Gervais: "Anything but that – I can't sing a note. Why would I humiliate myself?"

And an X Factor insider confirmed: "Simon likes to pretend he is up for any challenge but this was too much for him to cope with."

"He would never be able to be so nasty again at auditions if the contestants had heard his terrible singing voice. They'd just laugh in his face."

Ricky, 45, made the revelation on spin-off show The Xtra Factor.

When asked if he had ever thought of having Simon as a guest star on Extras, he admitted: "He turned us down because we wanted him to sing on the show."

Panto

"Simon told me that is the one thing he wouldn't do, saying, 'I can't do it darling!'" He said he would do anything but that."

Meanwhile, Simon continued his feud with rival mentor Louis Walsh, 54, on Saturday night's X Factor.

Sharon Osbourne, also 54, set the ball rolling by telling Ray Quinn, 18, he would make a good panto star.

Later, on The Xtra Factor, Louis told Simon: "You'd be a dame."

But rattled Simon – who has been the butt of Louis' gay jibes in the past – snapped: "You'd be the back end of the cow!"

Earlier the pair had clashed when Louis criticised Simon for flying to the US to work on American Idol.

He accused him of abandoning his acts Ray and Leona Lewis, 21, by saying: "Simon has been away all week. I've been with my artists all week." But Simon

CHICKEN: Cowell refused offer

by CAMERON MILLAR

responded: "That's pathetic. Just for once, shut up."

Despite his absence, his acts survived and soul man Robert Allen packed his bags after losing the sing-off with Eton Road.

Louis was in floods of tears as he voted to axe Robert. Sharon, his mentor, voted to keep him but his fate was sealed by Simon.

However he stayed positive, saying he would now have more time to spend with his pregnant girlfriend Samia.

Vocals

He revealed: "Her due date is not until December 23 but my boy is already over nine pounds."

"So she might have to be induced this week if the doctors say so."

He plans to call his son Elijah, adding: "We need to know if the baby has to come early. It's gonna be a big baby."

"I think it has a big head like mine. His vocals are gonna be amazing!"

And he refused to be down-hearted about being kicked off the show.

He said: "I'm a fighter and a go-getter and I have been given such a great opportunity, singing in front of millions of people."

"I want to live my dream out to the fullest extent."

"It's the end of one chapter but hopefully I will be starting the beginning of a new one."

Leona is favourite with bookies Coral to win the show at 1-2. Ben is 2-1, Eton Road 8-1, The MacDonald Brothers 25-1 and Ray 33-1.

● The X Factor beat BBC1's Strictly Come Dancing again in the Saturday ratings war.

The X Factor pulled in 10.6m viewers, while 9.9m tuned in to see former Manchester United goalie Peter Schmeichel, 43, axed from Strictly Come Dancing.

DODGY car dealers are ripping off buyers by charging up to three times the purchase price.

They con innocent motorists into signing up for exorbitant loans with inflated interest rates.

One 19-year-old bought a second-hand Ford Focus for £7,250 only to discover he would be charged 34% interest and owed £20,889, trading standards officers revealed.

"The awful irony is that he could have bought a brand new Ford Focus from a Ford dealer for £13,000," said one officer in Knowsley, near Liverpool, where the ripped-off youngster lives.

"Instead he is now in debt for over £20,000 for a second hand car."

Unwitting buyers are also lumbered with costly payment protection policies, warranties and breakdown cover.

Risk

The Trading Standards Institute says some dealers - particularly independent car supermarket outlets - are exploiting the eagerness of young motorists to get behind the wheel of their first car.

"This is a growing problem," said Peter Stratton, a motor industry officer for the institute which will highlight the rip-off at today's launch of National Consumer Week.

"Salesmen simply massage the figures to match the monthly repayment they think a customer can afford." Young first-time buyers and those with a blemished credit record are particularly at risk and there is no cooling off period once they have signed.

Another victim of the scam, Richard Oldfield, a 21-year-old insurance clerk from Leeds, was stunned to find he owed £14,361 for a £7,500 Ford Fiesta.

"The salesman told me I could come back within 14 days if I was unsure," he said.

"It turned out that wasn't the case."

McFly get all lit up

FANS of McFly had Cheltenham busting at the seams when an amazing 30,000 of them turned out to watch the lads play a free gig after switching on the town's Christmas lights – double the predicted crowd. A massive surge forward as the boys took the stage had police worried for a moment. But nobody was hurt or arrested – and the well-behaved fans got a pat on the head from the cops.

KILLERS STAR TO HELP BORRELL CRACK USA

EXCLUSIVE

BRANDON Flowers and Johnny Borrell are set to record a duet at London's famous Abbey Road studios.

The Killers frontman is a huge Razorlight fan and, with his support, I'm certain it'll help Borrell's band break the American market.

Meanwhile I can't wait to hear the results of them hooking up.

Brandon, 25, revealed to me that his band had met Razorlight a couple of times and he was setting up the recording of a song with Johnny, 26.

Tour

"We're going to do a cover of Dire Straits' Romeo and Juliet for the Live At Abbey Road TV show," he said.

Razorlight are scheduled to film the programme on November 30, two days after The Killers close their UK tour.

Brandon believes Razorlight's No.1 single America will win them millions of fans across the pond.

He explained: "America is my favourite Razorlight song. It's not negative so I can't see why people in the US wouldn't like it.

DUET: Razorlight's Borrell

"I thought it showed a lot of maturity on their part. It's just a great song."

Snow Patrol have managed to crack the elusive USA scene this year, while many performers, such as Robbie Williams, 32, have stalled there.

Brandon believes Razorlight and Kasabian are our next biggest hope.

He added: "Kasabian are great live and when I hear them and Razorlight I think hopefully it'll happen for them in the States."

"A lot of people get intimidated when they go somewhere so big. We're lucky we're from there and have English influences so we had the best of both worlds because we understand America and deliver our songs big."

"It's difficult for British bands to make it there."

The Killers' new single Bones will be released on November 27.

BUZZ: Tom loves touring

Tom so Keane

TOM Chaplin has proclaimed touring better than rehab so is taking Keane on the road again in 2007.

The 27-year-old said: "Our recent tour has reminded us of why we picked up our instruments and started making music in the first place."

"After the problems I've had this year, I felt the best buzz of my life getting back among the love and boundless enthusiasm of our fans and now we want to take that to another level."

Tickets for Keane's 2007 arena shows, starting on February 22 in Bournemouth, go on sale this Wednesday on www.keanemusic.com only, and from usual outlets on Friday.

Battle of giants

IT'S a massive one for new albums this week, with Oasis, U2, and Westlife all going head-to-head.

Each of the acts have topped the charts many times before, and will be hoping for another No.1.

While you're down the shops, check out Buena Vista Social Club remixing songs by Arctic Monkeys, Franz Ferdinand and lots more on Rhythms del Mundo.

SO SWEET..

THE SUGABABES went hell for leather performing their greatest hits at London club night G-A-Y on Saturday.

As you can see from my picture Keisha Buchanan, 21, laced herself into a raunchy PVC ensemble instead of a Red Dress.

The result was a crowd Overloaded with excitement. Meanwhile their Singles Collection hit No.3 in the chart last night.

Akon is not konvinced by the rest

HIP-HOP star Akon is so bored with the music industry he only listens to himself these days.

The 25-year-old Senegalese singer has hit the top of the singles chart with Smack That – a huge smash as I predicted.

Yet despite the tune featuring his buddy Eminem, 34, Akon finds his contemporaries dull.

He told me: "There's nothing but my new album Konvicted on my iPod. I'm a fan of myself. I get tired of listening to the radio."

"The scene is growing but it seems to me like they're all doing the same thing. Konvicted hits the shops today."

MOTT

SHIRLEY Manson has teamed up with White Stripes Jack White to produce her solo record. It will be released next year, as will her band Garbage's Best Of album.

HOLLYOAKS

HOLLYOAKS hunk Ben Davies is given an "Indecent Proposal" to release girlfriend Polly from her life as a prostitute.

Pretty Polly is determined to get off the game and confronts boss Burton Phillips (Lee Warburton, 34) about being released from his evil clutches once and for all.

But Burton lobs a spanner in the works telling Polly (Georgina Walker, 22, right) she can stop being a hooker if she gets Ben to slip between the sheets with his boss Stella – ex-Emmerdale bitch Claire King. Claire, 43 – who is causing a real storm on BBC1's Strictly Come Dancing – says: "Burton and Stella go way back, they were kind of a couple."

"Stella arranges parties and Burton provides the boys and girls."

Fans will be kept guessing as to whether Ben (Marcus Patric, 27) sells himself.

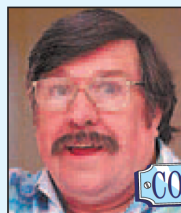

An insider said: "Claire's perfect for this as she is used to playing a complete bitch. Stella's a character and a real match for Burton."

"It's a real-life Indecent Proposal. She doesn't stop there either as another Hollyoaks regular will be seduced by her."

WHY I'M DREADING MY FIRST TV KISS

NEW Emmerdale star Matthew Wolfenden is petrified he's going to ruin his first screen kiss - by dribbling.

The hunky David Beckham lookalike arrives in the village next week as David Metcalfe, who is looking for his dad.

And he quickly attracts the lusty attentions of Delilah Dingle (Hayley Tamaddon, 29).

Speaking exclusively to the Daily Star, Matthew, 26, revealed: "They meet across the Woolpack bar and that's it really."

"I haven't kissed her yet but I get the chance to pretty soon - and I'm so scared about it. I never thought

Matt fears he'll be Dales dribbler

Exclusive

I would be. But when I heard other people say screen kisses were awful to do and realised there would be '20-odd people stood behind the camera watching, how nerve-racking is that?

"It's got me panicking about what I might do. I'm scared I'm going to dribble or something. But hopefully we'll have a laugh."

Matthew brings a dark secret with him to Emmerdale - his father is scheming Eric Pollard (Chris Chittell, 58), who has no idea he even has a son.

Matthew explained: "David's never seen his dad before. But his mum explains all about him as she's lying on her death bed."

Funny

"He comes to the village knowing exactly who he's after. But for the first few episodes there'll be a kind of 'Who's your daddy?' storyline going on. There are various men who it could be and no-one really thinks it could be Eric. Eventually Zak Dingle decides it's him because he can't remember what he was doing 25 years ago, which is very funny."

"Eric doesn't believe I could be his son until he discovers I've inherited a lot of money from my mum and he wants to get his hands on it."

● Matthew arrives in the ITV1 soap on Sunday, November 26 at 7pm.
